

JANE MARTIN POETRY PRIZE

2021

About the Jane Martin Poetry Prize

Girton College is delighted to invite entries for the 2021 Jane Martin Poetry Prize. Now in its 11th year, the prize is a key part of the College's support for poetry and will be of interest to all those who are serious about literary excellence.

The competition will be judged by experts drawn from across the literary world and academia. We are thrilled that this year the panel will include Sean Hewitt among others

Building on the success of previous years, the 2021 winner will receive not just a cash prize of £700, but the opportunity to give a reading (live or pre-recorded) at a virtual celebratory event, at which the prize will be awarded. There will also be a second cash prize of £300.

About Girton College

Girton is a college of the University of Cambridge. Established in 1869 on the principles of equality and diversity, Girton played a leading role in opening higher education to women. Fully mixed for over 30 years, the College now prides itself on offering the highest quality of learning to all, regardless of background.

Girton has contributed to the education and shared in the lives of many celebrated authors and has a strong tradition of supporting creative writing. Alumni include Gwyneth Lewis (First National poet of Wales), Wendy Holden (School for Husbands, Marrying Up) and Emma Donoghue (Room, the Woman Who Gave Birth to Rabbits).

The Panel

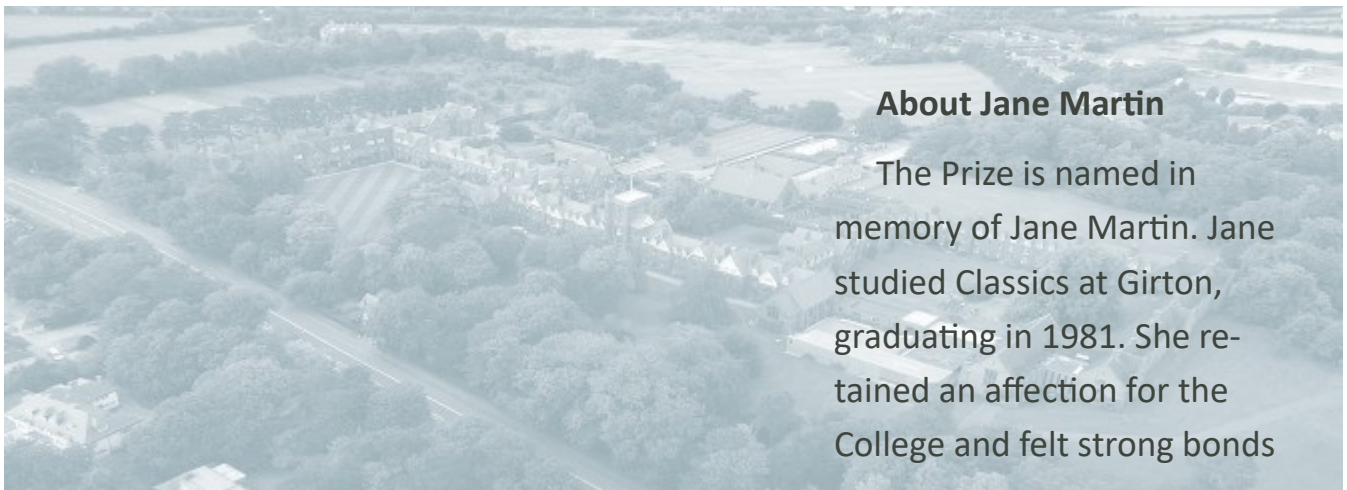

The shortlisted entries for the 2021 Jane Martin Poetry Prize will be judged by an eminent panel, led by:

Sean Hewitt

Seán Hewitt is a poet, lecturer and literary critic. His debut collection, Tongues of Fire (Cape, 2020), was shortlisted for The Sunday Times Young Writer of the Year Award. In 2019, he won an Eric Gregory Award, and he is also the winner of the Resurgence Prize, 2017. His memoir, All Down Darkness Wide, will be published in 2022

Second Judge to be confirmed....
